

During the summer Cameron and Aaron wanted to take a trip to Spain. Cameron takes Spanish and can speak fluently, but on the other hand Aaron does not know a bit of Spanish. Cameron had insisted that he take a class or a few lessons, but Aaron did not listen to him and said he would be fine, after all, he did have Cameron to speak for him.

The time of the trip came and the boys were packed and ready. They got on the plane, and arrived in Spain. Since Cameron knew Spanish he spoke to people and got a hotel room. The boys traveled all over Spain. They visited restaurants, landmarks and different hotels. Cameron was always the one to speak. Aaron was silent the whole trip. Every time they visited a restaurant Cameron was always the one to order. He always asked for directions, or asked questions about certain things. But one night, Aaron had to go to the bathroom. He admitted to Cameron that he would be fine, but in the long run he wasn't. Aaron had gotten so distracted by all the culture and place, he lost sight of where he was going. Aaron was officially lost. He did not speak Spanish, so who was he going to ask for directions. He pulled out his phone to call Cameron, but it was dead. He was travelling on a road that was not familiar at all. He was very frightened and was not sure how to get out. He tried asking people for help, but no one could understand what he was saying. He gave up and just sat down by a tree and hoped Cameron would come for him.

Meanwhile Cameron was scared Aaron was lost because he was gone for a while, and he didn't know if he could find him. Cameron started to ask around if anyone had seen his friend. Luckily since they could understand him they told Cameron where Aaron was. Aaron was so excited to see Cam because he didn't think he could find him. Cam had said to Aaron "Now are you thinking about taking a foreign language?" Aaron replied, "definitely!"

Later through the year Aaron started to take Spanish. Cameron was proud of him because he really wanted Aaron to learn so they could take more trips. After Aaron could speak fluently, the boys thought it would be a good idea to go back to Spain every summer, as a fun trip. Thankfully each time they went no one had gotten lost. Aaron learned an important lesson. It was a wonderful idea to take a foreign language!